IMPASSIONED GRATORY FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

Mow, He Askn, Can New York Stand for This Curse When His State Has Learned its Lesson? - Local Option the dy to Make a Salooniess State.

Gird thee, O'Church! and arouse thee, O States where he the woe of the miliatone thy fatel Bantish the Beast! Let the glad years relate What shall become of our chidren?

For more than an hour at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon ex-Gov. Robert B. Glenn of North Carolina laid himself out to banish the Beast, the rum Beast, ad the United Church Choir of New hanked 400 strong on the stage, and the Lotus Glee Club helped him on, while a crowded house encouraged him by joining in the choruses of songs as compromising as this:

Born in the wedlock of passion and drink. Sin set and sick ere they learn how to thin sed to defeat from the cradle's white brink hat shall become of our children?

Gov. Glenn was the leading attraction at a meeting in the interests of local ption for cities. "I have not always en an absolute teetotaler," said he. I am ashamed to say that I used to lay it to St. Paul and take a little for my ch's sake and mine oft infirmities, and that those oft infirmities became very oft indeed. But not for many rears has a drop of the cursed stuff gone sen what the demon can do. Of seven of my college friends two are in the grave, three are in insane asylums and two are a disgrace to the name of North Carolina, all through that demon.

"I've heard the moans and groans and of agony going up to Almighty God from the asylums and learned that 33 1-3 per cent, of the victims are there through drink; I've visited the old soldiers' homes and learned that 50 per cent. of the inmates are there from the ame cause, and almshouses and learned that 70 per cent, of those there sheltered are there from this same curse.

cause I have seen these things, "Because I have seen these things, and Oh, my God! because I have feit these things, I have dedicated the rest of my life to the cause of fighting this terrible, damning evil. [Applause.] If the brings crime instead of law, disease instead of health, rags instead of clothes. The state of New York? I come to appeal to the manhood and womancarse in the State of New York? I come to appeal to the manhood and womanhood of the Empire State and of the greatest city in the world to get into action here to-night, so that in five, ten or twenty years God shall be glorified and the curse of this temptation be abolished.

"New York, whose forefathers stood with Washington at Valley Forge for freedom, who stood at Yorktown; New York, who furnished the bravest that confronted the South from '61 to '65—how long will its freemen submit to being ong will its freemen submit to being overned and controlled by the whiskey ing? Why does this whiskey ring brough the Legislature keep its hands hat if they give you the right to vote for local option in five years there won't be a saloon in New York State, and I believe New York itself would be found right in line. North Carolina, which in 1981 went 103,000 for liquor, in 1907 went 45,000 for God, all through the progress of local option. That's all you want right here, and you'll call me back once more before I die to celebrate with you the victory and a saloonless State.

"If whiskey helps business, as they sell you, why don't you get a drunken barber to shave you on Wednesday or Saturday night? Or you here hire a drunken chauffeur? Drink up a dollar? I'd better throw it into the fire, for the fire growth but if I drink it down? I'd better throw it into the fire, for then it's gone; but if I drink it down I may go home and beat my wife or get into the calaboose. I drink up a dollar and there goes a good cotton hat doesn't it? I drink up 75 cents and there goes my shirt, $2 and there goes my shoos, and I drink up $3 and away goes my breeches—and I ain't going any further!

"Gaston county, N. C., in 1935-96 had thirty-eight Government distilleries and a lot more that weren't scheduled, no echools, hardly a church no code.

a lot more that weren't scheduled no schools, hardly a church, no roads worth speaking of, and only two factories. But ten years ago the people threw out rum.

Induced many of his neighbors to get it will do for the American advocates only can get it through. The advocates only can get it t and now there isn't a distillery nor a groggery, there are schools for all the boys and girls, churches are being reared to God's glory, macadam roads run everywhere, and there are forty-three factories employing 15,000 citizens. Which "In Maine I said: 'At last, thank God,

I've found a place where it takes a guide to get a drink! Why here in New York it to get a drink! Why here in New York is taken a guardian to keep a man from getting a drink even when he doesn't want one! In North Carolina there is one criminal to every 13,000 population In New Jersey, the same size State, there is one criminal to every 356 persons. Why this difference? Strong drink. If there could be such a thing as a tear in heaven. could be such a thing as a tear in heaven the would be shed by me if at the last day It would be shed by me if at the last day I saw my son come to the gate and be sent down and heard his wail saying his blood was upon my head because I had voted against the suppression of this liquor iniquity. Thank God that can't happen. Sixty per cent of the stranded women began their course through the vice mill of strong drink, and 80 per cent of the stranded men. Is it my son that's down there in crime; is it your daughter down there in crime; is it your daughter kicked from a brothel, too low even for such a vile place as that? Do your duty as God has prospered you, and don't leave this house till the pure breath and the sweetness of the benediction has

Albert E. Hartoorn, who is a lawyer and a neighbor of Harris, appeared for the prisoner before Magistrate Corrigan in the West Side court yesterday. In the absence of Messrs. Roskam and Scott, who are to appear against him, Harris was held in $2,500 bail for examination Detective Boyle told the Court that the defendant had admitted to him that he possessed the certification die with which the bad check was stamped. The detectives also declared that the prisoner did all his own printing of the spurious checks and bill and letter heads used by him.

The detectives say that Harris's description tallies with that of the man who swindled a couple of Philadelphia dealers Harry Pike, local manager of the Chalm Detroit company, also identified Harris nto my stomach, nor ever will. I've as the man who came near stinging him a year ago. At that time Harris was supposed to be Daniel G. Ryan, a Government contractor. He had letterheads to that effect and it was through a curt business letter on one of these that nego tiations were opened.

"Ryan" was about to buy a car and wanted to know what cars were for sale After a list had been submitted a pros perous looking man appeared and said he was Rvan.

Pike became suspicious, however, and sent one of his men down to South Amboy, where "Ryan" said he lived, to look up the man and his standing. The report was unfavorable, as he was not known there, but merely called for letters at the post office. "Ryan" never came back to get that auto.

The detectives say that the man had arranged to sell his cars even before he had purchased them and for this purpose always carried bogus bills of sale, antedated by several months, as indicating the cost of the cars to him. Then he would whisk a car to Philadelphia and dispose of it before the New York dealer knew he had been swindled.

The man's arrest was brought about by a visit to Philadelphia last Thursday of Jesse Froelich of the Benz company. Pike told him some time ago of how near he came to being swindled. Froelich remembered this when he found a Philadelphia agent boasting of a bargain he

HACKENSACK, N. J., March 20. Gov. night at the opening of the new home of the Union League Club of Bergen county, at Hackensack, referred to the Allds investigation at Albany and the fight against Speaker Cannon at Washington. Among avils other things he said:

"According to the reports from Albany and Washington we are seemingly divided in our party, but these conditions do not discourage me. I siways have believed in the Republican party purging itself of anything that is wrong in it. I think it reflects credit on the party for having acted. Out of such contests as are now affect votes in an intensely commercial prevailing in Washington and Albany nation, you may expect while machine and possibly to some attle extent, may I methods prevail that the nominations in say, in New Jersey will come a better day, a stronger Republican party, a party not purposelesse and a party that will best serve the people.

"I regret that the newspapers of this country do not publish fuller details of the proceedings in Congress, as the British papers do in handling their reports of Parliament. Nothing is quite so good for our people to know and keep in touch with things done at Washington and with the men sent there, so that all can know these public men and be able to measure them up. The Congressional records should be published in full every day in the newspapers, for they would educate the readers to the main doings at the Capitol.
